III. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow

Durga Puja is a grand occasion in Kolkata. It is the time when city forgets its worries and get wrapped in excitement of celebrations and worships. People buy new clothes from stores which remain open till late into the night and offer big discounts. Preparations for the festival begin more than two months in advance when various puja committees of the city start placing orders for the statues of the goddess Durga to the image makers of Kumartuli. Kumartuli is a small locality in the the north of Kolkata near river Hooghly. For generations image makers of Kumartuli have been moulding splendid images of Goddess out of straw and clay.

In Hindu Mythology the story of Goddess goes like this. Mahishasur, a demon, assumed the shape of a buffalo and defeated all the gods in battle. The gods went to Lord Shiva who was very angry at Mahishasur. Out of the pure energy of his anger, Durga was created. Every God gave a weapon and a part of His energy to her. She rode off on a lion to fight with the demon. In the dangerous battle the Goddess pierced his heart with Her spear and killed him.
